Mr Ed Pierce and the Palmyra-Eagle
Band,

I took time to listen to the music of the 40's and it brings back memories of my youth. Those were days of everyone pulling together, similar to your band, All Together now as then.

Thanks for the CD it will be played often I believe. There are many still here that served but also many gone before us that gave their all - they are the heroes of our time.

Thanks for the memories
as Bob Hope
would say?

Richard Kasten

Thank you for your thoughtfulness!

NYC Metropolitan Museum accused of duping on

NEW YORK (AP) — Before visitors to the Metropolitan Museum of Art can stroll past the Picassos, Renoirs, Rembrandts and other priceless works, they must first deal with the ticket line, the posted $25 adult admission and the meaning of the word in smaller type just beneath it: "recommended."

Many people, especially foreign tourists, don't see it, don't understand it or don't question it. If they ask, they are told the fee is merely a suggested donation: You can pay what you wish, but you must pay something. Confusion over what's required to enter one of the world's great museums, which draws more than 6 million visitors a year, is at the heart of a class-action lawsuit this month accusing the Met of scheming to defraud the public into believing the fees are required.

The suit seeks compensation for museum members and visitors who paid by credit card over the past few years, though some who choose to pay less than the full price pull out a $10 or $5 bill. Some fork over a buck or loose change. Those who balk at paying anything at all are told they won't be allowed in unless they pay something, even a penny.

"I just asked for one adult general admissions and he just said, '$25,'" says Richard Johns, a high school math teacher from Little Rock, Ark., who paid the full price at the museum this past week. "It should be made clear that it is a donation you are required to make. Especially for foreign tourists who don't understand. Most people don't know it."

Met spokesman Harold Holzer denied any deception and said a policy of requiring visitors to pay at least something has been in place for more than four decades. "We are confident that the courts will see through this insupportable nuisance lawsuit," he said.

"The museum was designed to be open to everyone, without regard to their financial circumstances," said Arnold Weiss, one of two attorneys who filed the lawsuit on behalf of three museum-goers, a New Yorker and two tourists from the Czech Republic. "But instead, the museum has been converted into an elite tourist attraction."

'A SENTIMENTAL JOURNEY'

— On March 15, Palmyra-Eagle Community Band Director Ed Pierce donated 200 copies of the band's first CD, "The '40s: A Sentimental Journey," to Mark Grams, Dodge County Veterans Service Officer representing the Wisconsin Honor Flight. The CDs will be included in each "mail call" pack for each veteran on the Honor Flight. "This is a marvelous stroke of good fortune to have our CD accepted by the Wisconsin Honor Flight," said band director Ed Pierce. The Palmyra-Eagle Community Band also has been invited to play for a reception of a returning Honor Flight, and in return Grams presented Pierce with a special "Honor Flight" service medallion that only is given to special supporters of the Stars and Stripes Honor Flight. This exchange was unique and unprecedented for both organizations. The Honor Flight is an ongoing series of one-day flights taking Wisconsin World War II veterans to Washington, D.C. to see the National World War II Memorial. "The '40s: A Sentimental Journey" is unlike other collections of the period in that the music follows a timeline from 1939 to 1945. Presented are "band arrangements" unheard since the war years and that commemorate the 70th anniversary of "The Greatest Generation." Pictured above are Palmyra-Eagle Community Band Director Ed Pierce, left, presenting a CD to Dodge County Veterans Service officer Mark Grams; Shown above right is the special "Honor Flight" service medallion.
